

Hyatt Centric Debuts in France with Opening of Mountain Resort

Feature

Photo: © Hyatt Centric La Rosière

By Nicole Quaste - February 17, 2018

The highly anticipated opening of Hyatt Centric La Rosière marks the debut of the Hyatt Centric brand in France and the first Hyatt ski resort in Europe.

The idyllic property is situated in the French Alps in the center of Franco-Italian La Rosière, a popular skiing destination in the Tarentaise Valley known for its breathtaking natural landscape and proximity to Courchevel, Val d'Isère and Les Arcs ski resorts.

“The hotel is ideally located to provide guests with a launch pad to discover the best the region has to offer, whether that be the more than 160 kilometers of piste on our doorstep, or exploring the charms and hospitality of a traditional Savoyard mountain village,” said Yannick Aubry, general manager, Hyatt Centric La Rosière.

The hotel's 69 guestrooms and suites, including 12 specially designed family suites, boast under-floor heating and beautiful mountain views. For a day on the slopes, hotel services can arrange ski lessons, lift passes, heli-skiing excursions and more; afterwards, guests can unwind at the Summit Spa, featuring a swimming pool, sauna, steam room and outdoor hot tub.

The hotel's La Tavola Italian Restaurant captures the essence of the local culinary scene and boasts an impressive list of wines, all derived from mountain regions. Brasserie H40 serves French brasserie-style dishes à la carte as well as a breakfast buffet, and the H40 Bistro Bar offers draft beer, cocktails and comfortable armchairs, alongside an open fireplace. Finally, Surus Lounge Bar offers the perfect setting to relax and catch up on news or email, offering coffee, tea, infusions and a collection of rums from around the world.